Why Engage with the On Demand Recording?

This webinar offers valuable learning for professionals across care, safeguarding, education and support services.

Participants' feedback suggests that the recording may be particularly useful for professionals who want to:

- Explore Paulo Freire's ideas about humanisation, dialogue, power and participation.
- Reflect on how professional authority is exercised in relationships with people receiving care and support.
- Consider how language, systems and professional habits can influence the experience of people using services.
- Question assumptions about expertise, knowledge and the professional role.
- Create space for critical reflection on the values and relationships that shape practice.
- Support CPD, supervision, management discussions or team learning.

Engaging with the On Demand recording provides an opportunity to consider not only what practitioners do, but how they understand their work and their relationships with the people they support.

The recording can be used for individual CPD or as the stimulus for supervision, a practice meeting or a facilitated team-learning session. CareKnowledge's accompanying resources can help teams move from watching the recording to discussing what the ideas mean for their own work.

The webinar's philosophical approach makes it particularly suitable for learning spaces where practitioners can explore different perspectives, question assumptions and consider how their professional judgement develops.
